Pain Management in Palliative Care

Following on from the success of previous study days on Pain Management, we invite you to join us for our annual Pain Management study day. Pain can be one of the most common and distressing symptoms at end of life.

This course is for interdisciplinary team members with an interest in increasing their knowledge base in pain assessment and management of patients with palliative care needs.

The content will include:

- Classification of pain and pain pathways
- pain assessment
- concept of total pain
- pharmacological and non-pharmacological management of pain
- pain pathways
- opioid conversion and calculations
- case studies exploring different types of pain
- opportunity for questions and answers
